Distinguishing Characteristics: Subject believed someone was trying to kill him. Last seen wearing gray tee shirt and pink flip flops.

Johnny Crosby, 67, of 31 C.R. 87, Tishomingo, has not been seen since about 11:30 a.m. Friday, his daughter told authorities.

Brandi Stanton said she had been staying with her father because he had been sick and depressed and she was worried about him, said Sheriff Glenn Whitlock.

She left the house to run some errands, and when she returned, Crosby was not at home. She reported the disappearance later that afternoon. Officials began an extensive search that included dogs and rescue squad members, the sheriff said, and they continued searching through Monday with no results. The Tishomingo County Search and Rescue Dive Team also searched a nearby pond, he said.

So far only lead has been a report of a sighting in Alabama.

"We don't know if he wandered off, left with someone, or left under bad circumstances," Whitlock said.
